

What does it mean?

What does being a visiting student mean?

Any students or university graduates admitted by UdL faculties or schools to take any courses but not following the usual admission procedures that would give access to official degree titles will be considered visiting students.

Moreover, the UdL will consider visiting students those foreign students who have been admitted to study part of the degree titles taught at the University of Lleida and who ARE NOT GOING to do so within the framework of the mobility programmes and the bilateral agreements signed with other universities that provide for this kind of mobility.

The courses taken as a visiting student lead to a certificate of studies issued by the University of Lleida, which will include the period of stay, the courses taken, the grades obtained. Besides, it will clearly state that these courses will not have any academic effect at the University of Lleida.
