Estrena de l'obra TOGETHER: A Theatrical Conversation, d'alumnat d'Estudis Anglesos de la UdL, en el marc del Congrés Internacional ENAS & NANAS 2025 [<https://enasnanaslleida2025.com/>].

"What a fascinating, frustrating, and everevolving puzzle we all belong to. Different groups, different perspectives, different sets of voices echoing through time. Some defiant, some weary, some hopeful, and all, in their own way, searching for meaning..."

What does it mean 'to belong to a generation'? And to be part of 'Gen Z' in particular? How does our 'generational identity' condition our own experience of ageing? To what extent do we understand each other if we inhabit different 'age-created' worlds? What binds us to the older generations? What meanings do we derive from their life stories? What intersections do our narratives and our identities create when we think of them 'together'?

A young company formed by 3rd and 4th yearstudents of the BA in English Studies of the University of Lleida has explored these questions in a 12-week-long theatre workshop where older people have also been interviewed: we invite you to join the theatrical conversation that has resulted from this exciting experience.
